

Abstract of the Disclosure

5 A toilet ventilation system including a fan housed within an interior space in a toilet seat lid, an intake passage created when the seat is down and the lid is raised, a stationary outflow duct through which evacuated air is driven, and a switch for activation of the fan. The system removes air from the toilet bowl, and vents it to a remote location.